The funeral sermon of Rev. Levi Beverage will be preached at the Poague Lane school house the first Sunday in June at eleven in the morning by T. W. Hegsett.

While the sovereigns of the soil prevented our getting an independent school district here there seems to be a disposition on their part to give us a new school house this year.

We have had frosty weather for a while. Sunday morning the thermometer registered 30 and the vegetation was much frozen and set back. In some gardens the tomatoes, potatoes, beans and other vegetables were killed. There was not much frost as the atmosphere seemed dry. Wednesday morning there was a heavy frost but did not do very much damage.

An Old Resident.

W. A. Kelley of near Huntersville was in town Monday. He is sixty-seven years old, "hale and hearty, six feet high, of massive build and fine proportions, and as straight as an Indian. Never has he missed a single meal from sickness, so perfect has been his health his whole life through. During the war he saw hard service for two and a half years as a soldier and escaped wounds only by a hair's breadth on a number of occasions. His closest call was when a minnie ball mowed a swath through his mustache, and a few minutes later another bullet cut a furrow in the side of his head. On a number of other occasions bullets cut holes in his clothes and a horse was shot from under him, giving him a severe fall, the worst hurt he ever experienced. Mr. Kelley says he never minded bullets and did not consider standing up when they were raining to be a severe test of courage, but he did not blame the stoutest heart for quailing when bomb shells were bursting.

Mr. Kelly has been a great hunter, as was his father before him. One of his earliest hunting experiences was the killing of a wolf. The father had been trapping for wolves and the traps, two in number, were set in a small pond of water and the bait placed in such a way that the wolf would spring the trap. Night after night the bait would be taken and the traps unprung. A third trap was put in the pond and concealed under a piece of moss. The wolf tramped in the third trap and was caught. In looking after the traps the next morning the father took his ten year old son with him, but when they came within sight of the trap, the wolf with his long ears erect looked so fierce the boy was frightened and stepped behind a tree to wait until his father had dispatched the wolf. The old hunter missing his son was much alarmed, supposing the boy had run away in the woods. Going back and finding him behind the tree, he gave him his staff and calling him a "cowardly puppy" made him go up and kill the wolf, which he did with a few well directed blows.

Wallace Beard, Senior, Dead.

Wallace Beard, for years a prominent citizen of Pocahontas County, died at the home of his son-in-law, B. F. Mann, of Fort Spring, Greenbrier County, last week, in his eighty-first year. Infirmitie incident to extreme age was the cause of his decease. He is survived by two daughters and a son, Mrs. B. F. Mann, of Greenbrier County, Mrs. Sam Wessinger, of Florida, and M. W. Beard, of Lahoma, Oklahoma. Belonging to one of the most prominent families of the Greenbrier Valley, Mr. Beard was a man distinguished for his consistent life in all the relations as a citizen and a christian. He was buried at Fort Spring, the services being conducted by the pastor of the Presbyterian Church, of which he had been a member for many years.

Fire at Harter.

Harter, W. Va., May 23—There was quite a fire in town this morning. Mr. Porterfield's house burned to the ground, and if it hadn't been for the work of men and women, Harter would have been a sorry looking place by now. Mrs. Porterfield saved her children by throwing one down the stairs and carrying out the other one. The fire started from a defective fue.

Killed Three Bears.

B. M. Hamrick, who lives on the headwaters of Gauley River, killed three bears near his home one day last week—a mother and two cubs. The hides, which were covered with long fur and in excellent condition, were purchased by W. G. Hamrick, junior, of Bergoo, at a good price. Mr. Hamrick also bought and shipped the hams, realizing a handsome sum from the sale.—Webster Echo.

SUNDAY MORNING.

Baccalaureate Sermon.

MONDAY NIGHT.

LECTURE—"Brains and Life," Dr. A. C. Wightman.

Commencement Exercises of Greenbrier Presbyterian School.

Lewisburg, W. Va.—The baccalaureate sermon was preached in the Old Stone Church Sunday, May 21, 8 p. m., by Rev. D. W. Hollinsworth, of Hinton. Fully seven hundred people were present. The sermon was on Daniel, the principal thought was the turning point of youth to manhood, the dangers which accompany it, and its great importance. The singing was led by the Daily family, the famous singers, who were in Lewisburg for the occasion.

The final exercises were held in the town hall Monday morning. Rev. Mr. Staunton, pastor of the Methodist church, opened the exercises with prayer, after which came the declamations and essays, followed by the orator's contest in which there were six contestants—four debaters and two who delivered orations.

The subject for debate was, "Resolved, That our Country has reached its Climax." On the affirmative were Lant Slavin and Frank Brown, and on the negative were John D. Preston and Charles Wilson. The question was well debated and the contest a close one. After considerable discussion by the judges, Judge McWhorter, Rev. Massey and H. L. VanSickler, it was decided to award the orator's medal to Frank Brown of Lewisburg. Glen Ford, of Greenbrier, delivered an oration on "Honesty" and A. L. Herold, of Pocahontas, on "Courage."

Other scholarships and medals were awarded as follows: R. S. Johnson, of Greenbrier, Scholarship to Hampden-Sidney. A. L. Herold, of Pocahontas, Scholarship to Washington and Lee University.

Sherman Beard, of Pocahontas, Department Medal. Lockhart Arbuckle, of Greenbrier, Scholarship Medal. Grady Holt, of Pocahontas, read an essay on "Cromwell," which was commended highly.

The medals were presented by Rev. Hollinsworth whose closing words were: "So long, young gentleman, as we have young men who can speak and act their part as well as you have this morning, I have no fear for the future of our country."

Arthur Lawson.

Card of Thanks.
